NEW BRUNSWICK

CANADA

NOWHERE on this North American continent can one spend a vacation so satisfactorily and so cheaply as in the Canadian Province of New Brunswick. Here can be found every requisite to an enjoyable and satisfying holiday. The beauty of the scenery, the comfort and attractiveness of the many seashore and inland resorts, the ease and facility with which these can be reached either by land or water, the abundance of fish and game, and the unrivalled facilities for boating, camping, and canoeing must continue to make this paradise of the pleasure lover and the sportsman more and more popular. The climate is equable and bracing. Most interesting historical associations cluster about the early days when French and English struggled for supremacy. Practically every town, village and hamlet has its local traditions.

Sportsmen all know that New Brunswick is the land of big game and that more and bigger moose are yearly killed in its forests than in any other section either of Canada or the United States, and that there are deer, caribou, bear and smaller game, as well as wildfowl, such as geese, ducks, partridges, woodcock and snipe to be had in abundance. The Restigouche is the world's most famous salmon river, while its greatest rivals are other New Brunswick rivers. The forests, rivers, lakes and streams lure the hunter, fisherman and canoeist with promise of the finest sport whether with gun or rod.

If your desire is to camp, canoe, fish or hunt, the New Brunswick Tourist Association, St. John, N. B., will put you in communication with guides who are reliable and trustworthy. Perhaps you prefer a quiet boarding house in some delightful country resort or on the sea shore, or quarters in a modern hotel in a summer climate that cannot be equalled, with comfortable days, cool nights, and no hay fever. Write the Secretary, stating your wishes.

French Acadians, descendants of those hardy and intrepid pioneers who first settled North America, inhabit a large section of the province, speaking their native tongue and maintaining in a measure the Historic Interest manners and traditions of their ancestors. The summer tourist will find a visit among their beautiful and picturesque settlements along the upper St. John or on the North Shore one of the pleasures of a lifetime and will carry away most pleasant memories and a keen appreciation of the important part the Acadians are playing in the agricultural and industrial life of Canada. The Grand Falls on the St. John river are second only to Niagara on the American continent, while the gorge is far wilder and more picturesque than that of the Niagara. Along the North Shore is seacoast scenery unrivalled on this continent.

From Boston, New Brunswick may be reached in a few hours by the All-rail Line, Boston & Maine,

GRAND FALLS, ST. JOHN RIVER.

Maine Central and Canadian Pacific Railways, or by the palatial steamers of the Eastern Steamship Company,

How to Get There and from Montreal by either the Canadian Pacific or Intercolonial Railways. If the tourist should be in Nova Scotia, it is but a two hours voyage in a fine steamer across the Bay of Fundy from the Land of Evangeline, or an all-rail ride on the Intercolonial.

St. John, the chief commercial city of New Brunswick, has many attractions. The tides in the harbor, which have a variation of twenty to twenty-seven feet, produce a phenomenon on the water front

City of St. John that astonishes and surprises the visitor, who is also interested in the craft of all nations loading cargo at the wharves. The remarkable Reversing Falls have no counterpart in the world. With each turn of the tide the cataract turns. Sometimes there is a fall up-river, sometimes a fall down stream, and at other times a placid surface over which a canoe or racing shell can be sailed with safety. St. John City was founded by the United Empire Loyalists, who, refusing to join in the American Declaration of Independence, abandoned their homes and moved to Canada. Among their cherished possessions was the Royal Arms which formerly hung in the Council Chamber of the Old Town House, Boston. This today occupies a place of prominence in Trinity church, and is an object of interest to many visitors to the city. The church itself, a beautiful structure, contains many other memorials that will repay inspection. Great historical interest attaches to St. John because of the defense of her husband's fortress by Madame La Tour, the wife of a French trader and adventurer. Her story, so graphically told in Whittier's beautiful poem, "St. John," is one of the noblest and saddest in the pages of the early history of the country.

With a summer temperature that never exceeds eighty degrees, excellent hotel accommodation, beautiful streets, buildings and parks, St. John is a natural centre from which tourists branch out in all directions over the Maritime Provinces. Ten miles from St. John in one direction is beautiful Loch Lomond; nine miles in another, the charming village of Rothesay; and twelve miles in another is lovely Westfield on the St. John River; while closer at hand is the Bay Shore and Duck Cove, reached by the street cars, with a glorious outlook over the Bay, and fine opportunities for surf bathing. St. John in the winter season is one of the busiest ports on the Atlantic seaboard, for then great ocean steamers

Above Fredericton, are Woodstock, Grand Falls and Edmundston, and a game country that is famous the world over.

The North Shore of New Brunswick comprising the counties of Northumberland, Gloucester and Restigouche, is also famous as resorts for sportsmen.

traverses this portion of the Province, which tourists will find one of the most delightful in the whole country, the seashore resorts being particularly attractive to the summer visitor seeking beautiful beaches and cool breezes.

Other most attractive points reached by the Intercolonial, are Sussex, where the local militia camps each summer; Moncton, where the famous tidal bore of the Petitcodiac River may be seen; Sackville, a pretty university town, on the border of the great Tantramar marshes; Richibucto, Buctouche and other Kent County centres where there are magnificent beaches and beautiful scenery and good boarding houses and hotels; also to be found at Shediac, and Point du Chene, the point of departure to Prince Edward Island.

Other towns along the coast are St. Stephen, on the International border, St. George, the centre of probably the finest fishing region in the Province, excepting only the North Shore; St. Martins, where there is one of the most magnificent beaches along the whole Atlantic coast and excellent accommodations for summer tourists at moderate rates. Connecting at CAMPBELLTON with the Intercolonial Railway, also with steamers during season of open navigation for various points on the Bay and Gulf, and at ST. LEONARD with the Can. Pacific Ry.

THE Salmon and Trout fishing of the Restigouche River and its branches, rank as the best in the world. A noted sportsman from England, after an experience on this river, declared "it is worth a trip across the Atlantic to catch a salmon on the Restigouche!"

THE woods abound with Moose Caribou, Deer, Partridge and other game; Geese, Brant, Duck, Snipe, etc., are also obtainable in remarkable number, all making it pre-eminently "a happy hunting ground."

Competent guides are always available.

S. T. Wood, in a recent article in the TORONTO GLOBE, referring to the construction of the "National Transcontinental" and the "International" Railways, declared that "this opening up of new territory, in any other part of the Dominion, would be celebrated almost as the birth of a nation."

The famous "Bay Chaleur" deserves special notice. Here the finest sea bathing in all America may be enjoyed. The name, signifying Bay of Heat, was applied by the discoverer, Jacques Cartier, in A.D. 1534. It is a remarkable fact that the water in the Bay Chaleur is much warmer than on any part of the Pacific Coast, even down to the boundary between California and Mexico.

N. B.—In the Bay Chaleur there is but little rise and fall of tide, and absolutely NO FOG.
